Party leaders, including members of the House and Senate, held an informal meeting at the Seelbach Saturday night and named a subcommittee composed of Judge Charles A. Hardin, chairman; Col. P. H. Callahan, Col. Harry Sommers, Elwood Hamilton and W. A. Gatliff, to arrange for the meeting.

NOAH GIPSON SUC-CUMBS SUDDENLY

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Gipson Lose Second Son Within a Year's Time.

Noah Gipson, twenty-four years old, succumbed to pneumonia at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Gipson, near Stephensport, on Tuesday afternoon of last week.

Young Gipson first had influenza which later developed into pneumonia and his heart became involved causing his sudden end.

A short funeral service was held at the grave in the Cloverport cemetery on Wednesday morning. Rev. A. N. Couch had charge of the service.

Last September, Gipson's younger brother was drowned in the Ohio River while watering his horse. They were the only two children of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Gipson, who survive but were unable to attend their son's funeral on account of having the influenza.

HOME BURNED

Mrs. L. C. Brinsley's Residence in Stephensport Destroyed Early Sat. Morning

Stephensport, Mar. 1. (Special)—The home of Mrs. L. C. Brinsley, on Main St., was destroyed by fire Saturday morning at 1 o'clock. Her son, Ira Brinsley, awakened and found the room full of smoke. He then woke his mother, and on going down to the dining-room and kitchen, found the fire beyond control, so could not save anything out of dining-room, kitchen bedrooms. The fire alarm was given and help arrived in time to save everything in the two front rooms.

The origin of the fire is not known and no insurance on building or contents. Mr. Brinsley worked without shoes and hat, so is in a prostrated condition from heat and smoke.

Fortunately the wind was not blowing and no other buildings were damaged.

WATER WORKS PROPOSITION PRESENTED TO CITY COUNCIL

Mr. Gillig Outlines Plan for Building Water System in Cloverport.

The City Council met in regular session on Monday evening and heard Mr. J. T. Gillig, of the J. T. Gillig Engineering Company, of Cincinnati, speak on the water-works proposition for Cloverport.

Besides Mayor Barry and his councilmen there was a good representation of the leading business men of the city who were there to hear Mr. Gillig, and several of them expressed their views for making plans and taking definite action on the proposition.

Mr. Gillig arrived in the city early Monday morning, and he with Mayor Barry and Councilmen Hamman and Gregory made a general survey of the town and noted the best locations for building the tower, reservoir and pumping station which Mr. Gillig recommended in his report.

It has been roughly estimated that to build a complete water-system for Cloverport it would cost between $30,000 and $40,000. According to the last act of the Legislature, Cloverport can not be bonded for more than $17,000, and getting the balance of the money is the question for deliberation.

Mr. Gillig, in his report before the City Council, stated that the $17,000 would build the tower, reservoir, pumping station and an 8 inch pipe main the entire length of Main street from Solbrig's corner in the East End to Ed. Whitehead's in the West End. Mr. Gillig recommended buying the equipment from the Government Salvage Department possible saying that the city would save about fifty per cent. He also recommended building a reservoir with a capacity of 50,000 gallons for the present, with a large enough pumping station so that in case of fire, should the reservoir be drained the water could be pumped directly into the water main. The 50,000 gallons, he said would, in case of fire, supply eight fire hose with a heavy stream of water for two consecutive hours.

Mr. Gillig did not advise installing a filter at first as the people here have cistern water for drinking.

People Want Water-Works.

When Mr. Gillig had finished his report Mayor Barry gave the citizens who were there an opportunity to voice their sentiment in the way of water-works.

Mr. R. B. Pierce was the first to speak and he was straight out for building a water-system to cover the entire city. As to raising the money, he said it would be raised because the people of the town wanted water-works.

Jno. D. Babbage, editor of The Breckenridge News, urged the Mayor to take some definite action on the matter without delay. He agreed with Mr. Gillig in saying that the money lost in fires in Cloverport would have built a fine water-system. Mr. Babbage added that whenever the people of Cloverport wanted a thing they found the way and the money to get it, and he firmly believed that there was no doubt but what the people would vote the bond issue.

D. B. Phelps, of the Phelps's Button Factory, told of a town in Missouri that had a situation similar to Cloverport, and of the plan used there in building water-works. The town could not be bonded heavily enough to build the plant, so the citizens paid for laying their individual pipe lines and they were eventually paid back the money by credit on their water bills. This seemed a very feasible plan for Cloverport.

Miss Ray Lewis Heyser, assistant cashier of the Breckenridge-Bank of Cloverport, who had a big share in helping to raise the money for the federal highway said that when the people paid their subscriptions for the road, there were any number who stated that if the money was being paid for water-works they would double their subscriptions. Miss Heyser offered her services to help secure the funds when the time came to build the plant.

Messrs. J. W. Pate, Marion Weatherholt and J. C. Nolte made speeches that were short and to the point in favor of building water-works.

Mayor to Call An Election.

After hearing these talks, Mayor Barry could not help but know that the general sentiment of the people was to have water-works and it was up to him to take some definite action in the matter. So the councilmen agreed to adjourn subject to a call meeting of the Mayor. In the meantime Mr. Gillig is to make an estimation of the cost for building a plant here—and submit it to Mayor Barry. As soon as Mayor Barry receives Mr. Gillig's report he will call a meeting of his councilmen and decide when to call an election to vote the bond issue.

THE PROGRESS OF A BILL EXPLAINED

Rep Cain is Back After a Fort-night at Home Nursing Flu Patients.

ROAD BILL PASSED

After two weeks detention at home serving as the only available nurse at the bedside of five members of my family, who were confined with the "flu", I have returned to my duties at Frankfort.

As a consequence of the enforced absence I find that I have fallen considerably behind with the work and I regret the circumstance very much. The two proposed amendments to the constitutions, one providing for the appointment instead of election of State School Superintendent and the other relative to the distribution of the school fund have passed both Houses, so you will have an opportunity, to vote for or against them in general election. Had I been here I should have voted against the former.

State Road Bill.

The Road bill with its many projects and various amendments will be again reported in the House and passed. Of course this measure will be of no benefit unless sufficient revenue is provided.

Among others the bill embodies the extension of two projects of special interest to you. One from Hartford via Fordsville, entering Breckenridge county near Askins and terminating at Hardinsburg. The other from Leitchfield, entering near McDaniels and also extending to and ending at Hardinsburg.

Since she already has the Federal Highway, it was not the original intention of the bill to include Breckenridge county in any of its projects and it was only her favorable position in relation to Ohio and Grayson counties that enabled her to secure these extensions.

It must be understood that other sections of the county have not been discriminated against.

It is just that the section benefited were in a position consistent with the projects in Ohio and Grayson.

Following is a brief outline of the progress of a bill which may be of some interest.

The Progress Of A Bill.

After a bill is introduced into the House of Representatives, it is assigned by the Speaker of the House to one of the Committees. In the Committee the bill is discussed as to its value to the people whether it carries with it an appropriation that will increase the taxes of the people, what effect it will have upon the laws already upon the Statutes etc., and if a majority of the Committee do not favor the bill, they render an unfavorable report to the House which is usually accepted by the House, and the bill is said to have been "killed in Committee."

It the majority of the Committee favor the passage of the bill it is given a favorable report to the House, which entitles it to its first reading. On three different days the bill must read in the House, and upon the third day, the House may vote upon the bill, or may recommut it. If they vote upon it and a majority are not in favor of its passage, the bill is "killed" (Continued on Page 8)

SMALL BEGINNINGS.

If the saying's true that "small beginnings make big endings," we are more hopeful than ever of having water-works in Cloverport.

Our beginning Monday evening at the City Council meeting looked small, yet one could tell that the few representative men of the town who were there meant business, and that that meeting would not be the end of the proposition.

While we are waiting for Mayor Barry to hear from Mr. Gillig, the engineer, regarding the exact estimation for building a plant, we can busy ourselves agitating the voters to vote for the bond issue when Mayor Barry calls the special election.

Mr. Gillig's report was much more favorable than many expected it to be, and he urged us to make the start towards building the plant and go as far as we could and from year to year increase its capacity as the population increases.

We believe it is the sentiment of the people in general to want water-works but unfortunately they will not come without some effort and denial on our part to get them. The opportunity is before us, we can't afford to let it slip.

Zimmie, the wise owl says, "A want ad is like a good woodchuck dog, it keeps right on digging till it gets a hold of what its after." The Breckenridge News' want ads are a fine example of Zimmie's philosophy. They get 'em!

368 automobiles are listed in Breckenridge County's tax report. In just a few months it will seem like we have at least that many in Cloverport.

There is a lot of good reading matter in this issue of The Breckenridge News. Read it thoroughly.

FARM AND STOCK

Thos. Lyddan, Webster, sold a car load of 33 head of steers averaging 1,000 pounds at $9.90. Said market was crowded with this class of cattle and the price off. However he was pleased with his sale.

J. M. Rhodes shipped 2 cars of logs from Webster, last week.

H. H. Norton shipped 2 cars of cattle from Webster, Saturday.

Ed. Shelman shipped a car load of cattle from Lodiburg, Saturday.

Charley Gross has bought a 40 acre farm near New Albany, Ind., for $4,000. He will move there this month.

Wallace Foote was in Irvington, Saturday, says his mother is resting easy, eats and sleeps well but has no strength. She will be 84 April 10, next.

The Cloverport Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse will have a sale next Friday, March 5th.

Read our want ads. They sell your stock, your eggs, anything you have for sale, while you sleep.—Notice the label on your paper. This is a hint, a gentle one.

A subscriber called us up over the phone before breakfast the other morning and said "Don't stop my paper, I'll send you a check." This sounded good! and gave us a good appetite for breakfast. Our wife enjoyed it too—and put an extra egg in the skillet.

EARLY GARDENING.

O, the pretty pictures in the seedman's catalogs! Pretty soon the time will come to do your garden togs. Make your seed selections now—onions, beets and beans. Parsnips, peppers, kale and chard and all the other greens. Eggplant, endive, cucumbers, celery and corn. Spinach, melons, cauliflower and parsley to adorn. Okra, cabbage, kohlrabi, fennel and cress. Peas enough of every kind to make a savory mess. Turnips, 'taters. Summer squash, pumpkins for your pies. Radishes, tomatoes, too, sage to make you wise. Brussels sprouts, celeriac, carrots, corn to pop—O, the list's so lovely it is mighty hard to stop! Make your seed selections now, for garden truck to cook. Then see if you can grow things like the pictures in the book!

ODD ITEMS FROM EVERYWHERE.

A professional man in El Dorado, Kans., stepping out on his front porch one morning read this sign, written in large letters on the porch floor: This house will be blown to atoms before Saturday night.

The Black Hand. The professional man returned to the house and confided in his family, deciding not to tell the 5-year-old son, who doubtless would be frightened at such a threat. Before Saturday night the family and all the roomers had moved quietly from the house. Sunday morning, their fears somewhat subsided, they sat in their new quarters talking about the averted tragedy and the possibility of a follow-up threat, when the 5-year-old son spoke up and said, "You talkin' about that writin' on the porch? I fixed that there after I come home from the picture show Wednesday night."

Isn't it strange how some people do odd things just to get even?—Cartoons Magazine.

Special Sermon On Stewardship

Sunday was observed in many of the Protestant churches of Greater Boston with special sermons and meetings. This stewardship campaign, which is part of the great Interchurch World Movement of North America, has as its goal the enrollment of 10,000 Christian stewards throughout the country, who will consecrate a certain percentage of their income to the church.

The idea of this Christian stewardship is the acknowledgment that the real owner of all things is God and that man is His steward. It is not a sense of revival of the old system of giving tithes "unto the Lord." It is felt that the money test is primary to 100 per cent Christianity and that the consecration of "the first fruits" of each churchgoer's income is the first part of the task in world rebuilding. The month of February was set apart by the evangelical churches in cooperation with the Interchurch Movement as Stewardship Month. Next Sunday will be National Life Service Sunday and on that day a call will be issued for young men and women to enlist for special Christian service.

Rev. W. Harry Freda's Sermon.

"Is prayer an ancient fable or a modern fact?" was the question asked by Rev. W. Harry Freda in his sermon at the Clarendon Street Baptist Church. Mr. Freda compared life in Biblical days with that of today, pointing out the great material changes which have occurred, such as in transportation and communication. He referred to the passing of many ancient customs which can find no place in modern life.

"But the great custom of prayer," he said, "has had its place in every century and it should have its place in modern life."

The minister took up various things which he said established the fact of prayer, first its world-wide recognition by every race and every religion; second, its important place in the life of every person from the child to the old man, from the most ignorant to the most learned; third, the history of its accomplishments.

"It has been through prayer," said the minister, "that all the heathen countries, such as China and India, have thrown open their gates to the Christian religion."

"But there is something which prayer cannot do," declared Mr. Freda; "it cannot work outside its own sphere. Electricity is a great force. It moves street cars, it carries messages over the ocean, but it cannot wrap up a package of tea. That we must do for ourselves. Just so prayer is a great force; but it cannot do for us the work we are intended to do for ourselves."

Mr. Freda spoke of the things which he placed keeping the right spirit toward others, living the right life, and maintaining faith in the power of God.

Dr. Conrad at Park Street Church.

That salvation is an active force, not a passive condition, was asserted by Dr. A. Z. Conrad of the Park Street Church in his sermon on "Flooding the World With the Surging Forces of Salvation." Dr. Conrad said, before he began the sermon, that it is not "in any prefatory spirit that we enter on an Evangelistic campaign." He urged the congregation to work incessantly for converts.

"I am not unmindful that this is the 22nd of February," said Dr. Conrad; "I am aware that if ever in the history of the republic it was important to lay emphasis on patriotism it is now, but for two reasons I do not wish to preach a solely patriotic sermon today. For three years we have laid emphasis on patriotism and citizenship, and these ideals are now familiar to everyone."

"Further more I will not permit the delivering of our thought one iota from the great work of our salvation and securing the salvation of others. Moreover, I couldn't preach a sermon more patriotic than to preach the controlling power of Jesus."

"Christianity is not negative. Christianity is intensely active, tremendously dynamic. It is not a state, it is a movement. It is not a condition, it is an activity. The instant Christianity becomes a reality in life, it moves out and expresses itself. There is no hiding of the Christ."

"Holiness in action is the significant fact of Christian life. God has chosen agents to accomplish His purpose in the world. What do we mean by salvation? It is the introduction of a controlling life forces where before there have been controlling death forces. St. Paul was not speaking merely speculatively and philosophically when he spoke of the death which has come on humanity through sin. It is the awful reality of life."

"The dominant forces under regeneration are the forces of God, and man partakes of his regeneration, for God has introduced into him forces which will crush out the parasites which feed upon the soul. It means also that man has control of all his energies. God comes to you and says, 'And no man shall stand before you all the days of your life.'"

Salvation "Rescue From Wreck." "There has been a great deal of objection to what seems to me to be a clear Biblical statement, that salvation is rescue from wreck. It is rescue from wreck, although man may not have been conscious of his condition before. It is the rediscovery of a trail. But salvation is more than that. True salvation is instantly dynamic. Its very gratitude compels action. 'No man can act toward another, whether in business dealings or in any other way, without concern to man is indifferent to Jesus. Whatever is of interest to man is of interest to the church of Jesus.'"

SNOW FELS JERUSALEM OLIVE OMEN TO TURKS.

Jerusalem, Feb. 23.—During a recent snow storm the famous tree named "El Butini" in the Garden of Gethsemane was blown down. According to traditions this tree would fall when the Turkish Empire fell. Twice it was bound with iron braces to prevent it from falling.

In the Garden of Gethsemane have stood for many years eight olive trees, tradition dating them back to the time of Christ. Their age-split trunks for a number of years have been bound with bands of iron and shored up with stones. High prices have been obtained for the olives and olive oil obtained from these trees and goodly prices realized from the sale of rosaries made from the olive stones. It is doubtless one of these trees to which the Jerusalem despatch refers.—Sun and N. Y. Herald.

CAN SOMEONE ENLIGHTEN HIM REGARDING MONEY FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

To The Editor of The Breckenridge News: If you will oblige me I would like to start an inquiry through your columns, or paper, something about the Road Tax on the 20th day of May 1919, in Breckenridge county, Ky. We held a special road tax election, voted on ourselves a tax of 25 cents on the one hundred dollars worth of property. Fourteen or sixteen years previous to this tax, the Fiscal Court levied a 25c Road and Bridge tax, making total of 50 cents; 45 cents to the roads, and 6 cents for bridges. The 1919 tax law said that each voting precinct should have the money derived from said tax. So far the Webster Precinct has had or derived but a very small amount from the county for the up keep of the roads.

I want to make you a plain statement:

I have no special ax to grind, no political enemies to lambast, not a personal insult to anyone, but I just want to know where the money goes that honest people are paying out every year. If you will print any and all talks on the subject and the county officials can give straight account of all money expended it would go a long way in satisfying the people. Any man with reason knows the amount of money that has been collected in taxes has not been expended on road work. We can safely say in this precinct that there has not been one dollar in fifty collected on road tax and spent on the roads.

Would like to hear from you soon. Respectfully, H. C. Stewart, Webster, Ky.

THE CHICKADEE.

When the lawn is deep with snow, And the world is dead, And hooded in a dull gray cloud The sun sulks overhead, I hear a little chirp of glee From somewhere on the lilac tree; It is the cheerful chickadee.

The falling snow may drift and hide The provender he seeks, And ice may seal the naked woods, But still he comes a welcome, wee, Brave visitor, and sings to me, The pert and friendly chickadee.

He knows that through the hourglass The frozen flakes will run And bring the daffodils again, To dance with wind and sun; And so upon the lilac tree He pipes in merry minstrelsy, The optimistic chickadee. Minna Irving.

TAME ANIMALS I HAVE KNOWN

A thick-fleeced lamb came trotting by, "Pray whither now, my lamb?" quoth I, "To have," said he, with ne'er a stop, "My wool clipped off at the ba-ba 'shop."

I asked the dog: "Why all this din?" Said he: "I'm fashioned outside in, And all my nights and days I've tried My best to get the bark outside."

A hen was cackling loud and long, Said I to her: "How strange your song!" Said she: "'Tis scarce a song; in fact, It's just a lay, to be eggs-act."

I asked the cat: "Pray tell me why You love to sing?" She blinked her eye, "My purr-puss, sir, as you can see, Is to a-mews myself," said she.

I asked a cow: "Why don't you kick The man who whips you with a stick?" "Alas! I must be lashed," said she, "So I can give whipped cream, you see!" —Nixon Waterman.

STORM WEATHER

When I meet strangers in the snow Who pass me on my muffled way, And speak as friends are wont to do, About the wildness of the day; When street cars have a friendly look And clumsy trucks wheel slowly by, When drivers and conductors call Directions quite good naturally; When it's the ordinary luck To slip and fall and slide about, When everybody waits to hear The big policeman's warning shout; When all thoughts centre on some house About whose door a welcome shows And in whose warmest depths the light Of friendship's kindly fireplace glows; I find that I am closer kin To those without and those within. WRECKERS OR BUILDERS.

Elsie Maynard, nine years old came into her gate swinging her school books, accompanied by her friend, Marion Bush. Marion was pretty, her father owned two motor cars and she was a power in the school room.

The two children went up on the piazza, Elsie looking to see if her mother was sitting by the open window. Yes, there she was, giving her little girl a welcoming smile and nod, then going on with her sewing. The children settled down comfortably on the steps and continued the subject they were discussing.

"I could see as soon as she came into the room," said Marion decidedly, "that she is a girl I should never like. She showed all over how much she thought of herself."

"O yes," replied Elsie, proud to agree with Marion Bush about anything. "She's probably just as stuck up as she can be."

"And so over-dressed!" said Marion. "Did you notice her diamond ring?" asked Elsie, uncertain whether or not to praise the lovely stone whose lights had fascinated her.

Marion turned up her nose. "I should say I did. The idea of a little girl wearing a ring like that, and to school of all places. Well, she'll find her airs and graces won't go down in our room."

"Hello, there's Michael!" exclaimed the visitor, then she emitted a shrill whistle which caused the chauffeur of a passing limousine to look around.

"Well, so long, Elsie," she cried, as she ran down the steps.

"Goodbye," murmured Elsie gazing in admiration at the nonchalant manner in which Marion hopped into the limousine.

Then she went into the house. "Mother I'm glad we're not newly rich," she said.

Mrs. Maynard laughed, "I wouldn't mind," she replied. "What's the news to-day?"

"Nothing much," answered the little girl. "O yes, somebody has smashed the windows of that empty house on Orchard Street."

"Isn't it strange," said Mrs. Maynard, "that some people would rather wreck than build?"

"Yes," agreed Elsie. "That was a nice house. Whoever did it ought to be put in prison."

"You wouldn't like them for your friends, then?"

"Of course not, Mother! What are you thinking of?"

breaking the commandment: 'Thou shalt not steal.' What meaner stealing is there than taking away one person's good opinion of another?"

"But mother, the new girl looked awfully proud and she had a diamond ring wasn't that silly?"

"And my poor little girl didn't even think it was pretty or say anything to stop Marion in her smashing. Think Elsie, of that new little girl coming, a stranger, into a school where all the children knew each other. Wouldn't that be a hard position for anyone?"

Elsie's cheeks were burning now, and her eyes were thoughtful. "No-body ate luncheon with her," she admitted reluctantly, "because Marion said—"

"Never mind Marion," interrupted Mrs. Maynard. "The question to me, is whether my child is going to be a wrecker or a builder."

"But it is so hard to do anything that Marion doesn't like," protested Elsie.

"Yes, but if you take a firm stand and show kindness to the new school-mate you will find the other children glad to follow your example. Marion's opinions rule many of you; but there is only one thing that should rule, and that is Right. Let Love guide you and remember the Golden Rule. I want to be the mother of a brave little girl, not a coward."

Elsie's brain was busy with thoughts of the new girl and the way she had all day tried to behave as if she didn't care what the other children did. She decided that she, herself, had been a coward.

"I wish it were tomorrow," she said suddenly.

"I'm going to begin to be a builder, no matter what happens."

By Clara Louise Burnham.

COL. WALTON, VETERAN NEWSPAPER EDITOR OF BLUEGRASS, IS DEAD.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 26.—William Palaski Walton, widely-known newspaper man and editor died last night. He had been ill for some time, but his death came rather suddenly.

Colonel Walton for years conducted the Stanford Interior Journal which, under his direction became one of the most widely-read and influential country newspapers in the state. He was born near Louisa Court House, Va., April 12, 1852, and came to Kentucky in the early seventies as a railroad contractor on the Southern railroad. He later purchased the Stanford Interior Journal and for twenty-five years personally conducted and edited the paper, making it one of the best newspapers of its kind in the state. He then sold the paper and plant to his brother, E. C. Walton, who at present is the editor.

Twenty years ago Mr. Walton came to Lexington and established the Democrat, a daily newspaper which continued in existence for almost two years. He later purchased and edited the Frankfort State Journal, which he sold about ten years ago to its present owner, Graham Vreeland. He had for several years been aiding in publicity work for the Democratic state committee. His widow and three children survive.

The funeral will be held here at 3 o'clock Friday with burial in the Lexington cemetery.

The Progress of a Bill Explained

which means it cannot be voted upon again.

If the bill receives a majority of the votes of those present and voting (there must be at least fifty-one voting in the House at the time), it is said to have "passed" in the House, and is then sent to the Senate to be voted upon.

Taken to the Senate.

The President of the Senate refers the bill to a Committee, where it is discussed in much the same manner it was in the House Committee, sometimes being amended in Committee, or amendments being recommended before it is reported in the Senate. If the Committee reports the bill favorably in the Senate, it is given its first reading and placed in the calendar. Upon another day it is given its second reading and placed in the order of the day. Upon its third reading, it may be voted upon by the Senate, and there are usually those who are for and opposed to the bill who will speak for and against its passage.

If the majority of the Committee and voting favor the passage of the bill, it is said to have "passed" the Senate. However, if any amendments have been made after the bill passed the House, the bill must be sent back to the House to have the amendments concurred in by the House. If the House refuse to concur, the bill fails of passage unless the Senate again vote upon the bill and withdraw the amendments made in the Senate. If the House concurs in the amendments made in the Senate, the bill is signed by the Speaker of the House and by the President of the Senate, and is sent to the Governor for his signature.

When It Becomes a Law.

If the Governor favors the passage of the bill, he will sign it, after which it becomes a law. If the Governor does not favor the passage of the bill he can veto it. If the Governor does not care to sign the bill but does not object to its becoming a law, he may allow it to lie upon his table for ten days, after which it becomes a law.

Unless a bill contains an emergency clause, it does not become a law until ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature. If it does contain an emergency clause, it becomes a law immediately upon the signature of the Governor.

begins at once to work out his salvation. He becomes dynamic. Christianity cannot be regarded as a selfish religion, for when one has found Christ there is an impulse not only to be as he was but to do as he did.

"We lay much stress now on productivity. It is a good word. The appeal today to the church is that she be a productive church. If I interpret the new movement correctly it means that we shall lift up the waters of life and send them out to baptize the world with salvation.

The second point made by Dr. Illiffe was America's wealth. We live in the midst of the greatest wealth the world has ever seen, he said.

"More than three-fourths of all the gold of the world is in the banks of America," said the speaker. "If all the gold in the banks of Japan, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, France and Great Britain were taken from the banks of America, we should still have more money left than we had in 1914.

"Where does it come from? How did we get it? Men became millionaires making shoes for the boys who went to battle. It was the same with khaki clothing. The Western farmers are riding around in automobiles because starving Europe will pay any price for wheat.

"The unprecedented price of 25 cents a pound was paid for pork because Europe is starving. The country is so in need of fats that they must extract marrow from the bones.

"How shall we serve Christ? By serving great causes. The majority of people in the church are waiting some spectacular thing, some great public enterprise, but the great task is right before you now. You are the center from which the whole world is to be flooded with salvation."

Rev. Dr. Illiffe Emphasizes Need For Stewardship.
The subject of "Christian Stewardship."

ship" was given a prominent place in the morning service in the First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. William Wallace Illiffe, spoke at length on the importance of the interchurch movement and later pledge cards were distributed in the congregation. Dr. Illiffe emphasized three points suggested by the parable of the pounds.

First, he said, we are in the midst of the greatest need the world has ever seen. More people died in Europe during February than in any month during the war.

"The committee which investigated conditions in Europe," said Dr. Illiffe, "has returned and reports that there are 10,000,000 starving children there. This committee now asks America for $150,000,000 to meet the need. The purpose is to give one meal a day to each starving child between the ages of 4 and 10. All under 4 must die; all over 10 must shift for themselves."

The minister's third point was in regard to the need of giving. The need for giving, he said, was the greatest the world had ever seen.

"Twenty-five million Protestant church members in America last year gave all together $250,000,000 for charitable purposes. If all these givers had been tithers—giving one-tenth of their income—if the average wage of American Christians had been but the wage of the lowest-paid group of workers in America (which are the waitresses in Alabama, who get 57 cents a day) and if this wage had been limited—not only would the church have contributed her $250,000,000, but $300,000,000 besides.

"If the Protestant churches of America had contributed at the same rate as did the Seventh Day Adventists, the church could not only have raised her $250,000,000 but $800,000,000 besides."

Next Sunday a special service will be held for the young people, at which the opportunities for Christian life service will be shown by Dr. Illiffe in connection with the inter-church movement.

Beard Brothers

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American Railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.
